Los Enchilados – Captured Close Portraits Of People After Eating Habanero Peppers

Eating chili is a way to gain respect for both men and women. And children many times in the course of their life will be pressured into eating chili to show that they've entered manhood. Eating chili is a metaphor to how Mexicans respond to risk.

+ Your task this week is to take portraits of people eating certain foods that will capture an expression using your phone/camera (whatever you have access to).

These should be presented on Canva alongside annotations which explain and explore your ideas. To submit your work you should share the design with staylor@fulstonmanor.kent.sch.uk
Please let me know if you have any issues.

We look forward to receiving your submissions.
